Conor Mullen Oberst is an American singer-songwriter who joined his first band at the age of 13 and has been releasing music since 1993. He is best known for his re-released project with Bright Eyes. Now 37 years old, Oberst has since been proclaimed a breakthrough artist by several notable magazines including Rolling Stone naming him Best Songwriter in 2008.

At an early age his brother, Matt introduced him to bands like The Smiths, Fugazi, R.E.M., and The Cure. Rummer is, Oberst's first cassette bought was The Cure's first singles collection, Staring at the Sea and is one of his favorites. The 1960s folk revival and country were also a huge influences on his music. Some consider Oberst a "new Bob Dylan" because he is such a strong musician in the folk genre.
